

HOW TORONTO DID IT

As air transportation expands, each city grapples with the task of enlarging its airport. Toronto's facilities offer an example of an effort to push the debarking and embarking facilities out into the field and at the same time to increase the convenience for the public. Three functions of many older airport buildings have been split apart. Administrative offices are in a separate structure off the port. The control tower is a mile distant from the terminal, which retains only the function of accommodating the people who are using the planes or meeting them.

Toronto's air terminal is "in the round." All sides of it can be used because vehicles use a tunnel to approach it. Garage can handle 2,400 cars.

Three-legged control tower rises from a separate Y-shaped area control center, away from the main building. Eskimo route markers, oldest road signs on this continent, add a decorative and appropriate note.

TOM TIEDE in VIET NAM

According to Hanoi Hannah

By TOM TIEDE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

AN ANHE, Viet Nam—(NEA)—Hanoi Hannah is a North Vietnamese radio celebrity whom some GIs here envision as a luscious lotus blossom and others figure as being just hazzled old hag with a wart on her nose. In any event she's kicks.

Her nightly broadcasts to U.S. troops provoke howls of glee.

Unfortunately for Hannah, she is trying to be serious.

"Hey, guys," a soldier will cry, "I'm getting Hannah on short wave."

"Oh, zow."

"Maybe she'll play that Communist love song again."

Tiede

"You mean the one about the militiaman and his plowhorse?"

"Yeah, yeah. Ain't it sexy?"

"Hey, knock it off, will ya?"

The radio's oriental music fades. "Good evening friends," Hannah says stiffly. "A very warm hello from Radio Hanoi."

"Talk to me sweetheart," says a trooper slapping his knee.

"What a broad," sighs another.

"Here I am Hanny baby."

"Hey, shaddup so's I can hear."

Unlike Tokyo Rose in World War II, Hannah is all business. No sex and sensuality. No reminders of mom's apple pie or mental

With their chow, American soldiers also get a transistorized dose of "Hanoi Hannah." They can turn her off, though.

The Christmas-New Year's period is a good time for marriages. It also is a prime time for engagements. Those who are finalizing their dreams for a future as man and wife now begin long lists of items for the home.

Although couples expect a large number of their linens as gifts, they like to select colors and patterns to fit their apartment or house decor. More and more these choices appear in store bridal registries.

Fortunately, this area of home decorating—essential though it may be—is taking on a high fashion note. According to Mrs. June Moehler, active in sales training and promotion for a leading manufacturer of linens and domestics (Fieldcrest), top firms have reached a point in quality merchandise control where they now can concentrate on fashion. "Fashion" in trade terminology means new, exciting colors and design. It also means more expensive items—$4.50 to $7.50 bath towels, for example.

Mrs. Moehler is excited by this trend but also keeps a steady grip on her enthusiasm. She advises young couples to work for co-ordination between bed and bath when shopping the linens and domestics departments in stores.

It helps to make a selection if you consider how the family will live, she says. An active sports life or lots of entertaining will call for a more complete linen closet. A couple with lots of relatives who like to visit also need a quantity of towels and bed linens.

The frequency of laundering and whether it is home or commercial laundry helps govern the quality of items bought. For example, more expensive, fine percale sheets and pillowcases cost less to launder commercially when the charge is per pound because they are lighter. Better quality towels also withstand the rigors of laundering better.

Seconds are good buys in linens and towels when

"The latest war tabulations on American casualties since July," she says precisely, "indicate more than 10,000 have been killed more nearly a 20th of that. In addition, over 800 U.S. jet fighters have been shot down over North Viet Nam (about 150).

"In other news, U.S. pilots have admitted killing helpless civilians in South Viet Nam during the bombing raids (half true).

"Despite the continued aggression of U.S. imperialism, however, the South Vietnamese Liberation armies (Viet Cong) are at all times vigilant and ready to bring down more planes and kill more troops."

"Ain't she something?" a GI groans.

"What a cat," another adds.

"She ain't too sharp on figures, is she?"

"Say, speaking of figures, I wonder."

"What kind of talk is that?"

"Man, that's three months away from women talk."

Hannah's shows are invariably the same. After the news is an editorial denouncing U.S. escalation of the war. Then a recording by an Asian soprano who sounds as if she's having her ears pierced. Then, Mailbag Time—write us for the truth, friends."

There is no small talk, no intimacies and no nonsense. There is only propaganda. Just another part of this weary war.

And the only part, unfortunately, one can just turn off.

Weaving an Old Story

Britons Embroider Behind Locked Doors

By TOM A. CULLEN
European Staff Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

LONDON—(NEA)—Behind locked doors, two dozen girls are working furiously to complete a 243-foot piece of embroidery by May, when Britain begins celebrating the 900th anniversary of the Battle of Hastings.

The giant tapestry is being made at the Royal School of Needlework under security conditions which make Fort Knox look like an open playground.

Why the secrecy?

"Because the town of Hastings wants the embroidery to come as a surprise when it is finished," explains Mrs. Grace Hamilton-King, principal of the school. "Besides, the girls will never get the work done if they are interrupted all the time."

The security lid was lifted long enough to give reporters a tantalizing glimpse of the needlework project. What newsmen saw was a glittering pageant of historical characters, worked in bright wool and metallic threads, stretching from William the Conqueror to Queen Elizabeth II.

The Norman Conquest of 1066, culminating in the Battle of Hastings, is as important to Britons as the Mayflower landing is to Americans. Just as many Americans trace their ancestors to the Mayflower, so Britons trace their families back to the time William came from Normandy.

And why embroidery to commemorate the event?

Nine-hundred years ago ladies of Normandy stitched the famous Bayeux Tapestry to celebrate the exploits of their menfolk in conquering England.

The British tried to borrow the Bayeux Tapestry for the 1966 celebration, but the French turned down the request. The Bayeux Tapestry is too fragile to be moved, the French claim.

The Hastings embroidery, which will cost about $20,000 when completed, will take up the story where the Bayeux Tapestry left off. Specifically, it will depict 81 historic events, including such scenes as the Magna Carta signing and the defeat of the Spanish Armada.

"No two historians will ever agree as to which events are the most important, so you are bound to start controversy," historian Arthur Bryant warned the organizers of the Hastings festival.

Indeed, the organizers have included a few mythical characters, such as Robin Hood, on the grounds that they are part of British tradition.

The panels have all been designed at the Royal School of Needlework, whose patron is Queen Mother Elizabeth.

We have tried to make the scenes as accurate as possible, but we cannot vouch for every detail," Mrs. Hamilton-King says. "To get the costumes and armor right in every detail would have required two years of research, at least."

Founded in 1872 by Princess Christian, a daughter of Queen Victoria, the needlework school's original aim was to provide a profession for gentlewomen to whom most of the professions, such as law and medicine, were shut.

The school's reputation for craftsmanship reaches the United States. It has made fine embroidery, such as altar frontals and vestments, for many American churches. It has made a set of heraldic banners for Yale University and once repaired a needlework carpet for Harvard.

Here, the school is kept busy repairing ancient tapestries, embroidered furniture, and such delicate objects as wedding veils and christening robes.

The 243-foot embroidery of Hastings will be housed in the Triadome, a special dome made of aluminum alloy, which the seaside resort is constructing. Already the embroidery is being spoken of as an art treasure, but will it have the staying quality of the Bayeux Tapestry?

Another nine-centuries-old tell

Wives who are interested in their husbands' good looks want them to buy my things," he said. "The one who doesn't care if her man's ego is as hungry as her own won't like what I have to sell."

One woman who certainly didn't want her husband to look attractive came with him to the shop the other day, Barbara Gersin recalled. "He was a man about 60—tall, straight, a little heavier than he should be, but definitely not about. He chose a dark red cashmere dinner jacket."

Why not? I don't need another black one. I'm sick of looking like an undertaker when I'm out for a good time."

Shields believes that a wife should understand that a man can get relaxation and cheer from his clothes just as she does. He mentioned that until 200 years ago every man who could afford it dressed with individuality. But during the French Revolution men lost their heads when they dressed like aristocrats. "Today," he said, "they're afraid they'll have their heads taken off by their wives or the chairman of the board if they break away from black or gray mold."

Shields' blond wife, Sandy, designs her own clothes, too, and has them made in the Shields' workshop. I asked if she helped her husband in his business.

"No," she said. "I just admire him." He apparently picked his right wife.

His customer list reads like "Who's Who." Here are just a few names: Peter Dinkov, James Mason, Douglas Fairbanks, William Devitt of Levitt town fame and Prince Rainier, who was brought in by Princess Grace.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Music fans are often astonished when they encounter Herb Alpert leader of a band with the unlikely name, Tijuana Brass.

They expect to find a jolly Mexican of the type Leo Carrillo used to play in "The Cisco Kid." Instead, they meet an intent and coolly handsome Jewish boy of 28.

This mixture is part of the power and charm of the Tijuana Brass, which combines an ancient musical sound — the Mariachi band — with a north-of-the-border beat and recording know-how.

The combination has proved a heady mixture for Alpert, once a movie musician. His albums are selling in the millions; two are among the top three current best-sellers. He and the band have appeared on every TV variety show, and his concerts are sell-outs.

Some long-sighted observers are predicting the Tijuana

Brass is the greatest thing to happen to the band business since Benny Goodman first tooted his clarinet at the New York Paramount.

Alpert takes a calmer view. "Bring back the band business?" he muses. "I don't know if anyone can do that. There will always be a few great old bands like Count Basie and Woody Herman. But I'm afraid the days when a Harry James could play one-nighters from coast-to-coast are gone forever."

"The economics of the music world just won't permit big traveling bands any more. But I do think there is a chance for new bands which are smaller and specialize in frequency sounds — seeking new patterns instead of the same color tones of saxes, trumpets and trombones that once existed in bands."

Alpert would allow that the Tijuana Brass brought trumpets back in style, and that was what he was after. His original concept was actually born at the bull ring in the Mexican border town for which the band is named — and where he never actually has played.

"I was enjoying the Mariachi music between the bullfights, and I wondered why it had never become popular in the United States," he recalled. "I decided to cross the Mariachi sound with the pulsation of American jazz."

Frustration Clay For Mentally Well
Dear Helen: I've never written a letter to a columnist before, but had to tell you I loved your idea for an automatic "damn, damn, damn" key for electric typewriters. Not being a typist, I take the next best route. I say it over and over and over until I get to feeling less frustrated. It really helps. Why I don't know. — Merrit Island, Florida.

Dear Helen: I worked in an institution for mental patients. In our therapy room we had a "clay table." On it were big gobs of molding clay, and the idea was to pick them up and throw them at special wall, or else pound them hard whenever the patients got feelings of frustration.

Know who used that "clay table" most? The administrators. I guess everybody needs a "damn - damn - damn" button. Hope it's invented soon! — Margaret

Dear Helen: What do you think of a man who, when he learned his wife is going to divorce him went into a decline because he was going to lose her as an income tax deduction? — Bread-away.

Dear B: I'd say if he maintains a wife on less than $600 a year, she SHOULD divorce him — H.

Dear Helen: My husband is a perfectionist. He started right in after we were married calling me a lazy good-for-nothing. (I was pregnant and awfully tired, then got pregnant again before I had a chance to recuperate.) For 20 months I was in almost solitary confinement, as he wouldn't take me out when I was expecting — I embarrassed him.

He expects me to meet him at the door in high heels and a frilly apron, after keeping the babies and the house spotless and making a perfect dinner. I agree, but sometimes I just can't manage everything. Then he calls me names.

To hear him talk, I haven't done a decent day's housework since we were married, and he still hesitates to take me out. This because I was always a fun-filled and eager, outgoing, friendly person who enjoys a good time. He says no smoking, no drinking, no laughing, and every time I open my mouth he says something real biting to cut me down in front of friends. He DID marry beneath him.

but after all he knew what I was like. My father is a coal miner and his father teaches school. I get tired of having him say "Either dust off the coal or go back in your hole" and things like that. I try to be a good mother, but honest, Helen, sometimes I dream myself in another man's arms because I need somebody to be on my team. I'm so unsure of myself I'm beginning to think I'm unfit to even live in the world. One kind word might help. — Confused.

Dear Confused: You certainly need kind words, and if a counselor can't put them in your husband's mouth, perhaps your doctor or lawyer can. Life's too short to live it with a person constantly belittles, criticizes and hacks away at your self-esteem — mainly to build up his own, I'd guess.

People who are unreasonably ashamed of their mates often are only trying to hide some inadequacy in themselves. — H.

Champion Bills Meet a Week Old Star Team

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The two-time champion Buffalo Bills meet a one-week old All-Star team Saturday in the American Football League's All-Star Bowl — an old game with a new name that closes the season and opens a new chapter in football.

The game, which will be televised nationally by NBC starting at 2 p.m., EST, is a radical departure from the usual post-season All-Star game matching teams from the East and West and thus presents some intriguing situations.

"You've got a highly coordinated team like Buffalo playing against one that's only been together a week," said All-Star Coach Sid Gillman of San Diego in putting his finger on one of the situations created by the new format.

Agreed, admitted Buffalo Coach Joe Collier, but:

"You've got a team like the All-Stars with highly qualified personnel — more qualified than any other All-Star team the league has ever had."

"There is no place you can let up on them."

And those are some of the ingredients which made the AFL decide in favor of the new set-up after four years of East-West battles. Low it will be the champions' pride and coordination against a vast amount of talent from the league's seven other teams.

In addition, this first All-Star Bowl marks the debut of Collier, who succeeded Lou Saban when the AFL Coach of the Year quit for a coaching job at the University of Maryland.

Collier will have the same offensive weapons that were available to Saban as the Bills won the AFL championship — quarterback Jack Kemp, the league's Most Valuable Player, running backs Wray Carlton and Billy Joe and receivers such as Bo Roberson, Paul Costa and either Ernie Warlick or Ed Rutkowski.

But Collier will have problems Saban probably never imagined — such as an All-Star offensive front four made up of Earl Faison and Ernie Ladd of San Diego and Kansas City's Buck Buchanan and Jerry Mays, a quartet that averages 6-foot-6 and 278 pounds.

The Bills also will have to contend with an All-Star defense that includes the league's No. 1 and 3 passers, San Diego's John Hadl and New York's Joe Namath, and the league's top three rushers, San Diego's Paul Lowe, Denver's Cookie Gilchrist and Oakland's Clem Daniels. In addition, Gillman has the other half of his San Diego running back combination, Keith Lincoln.

Drake Upsets Fifth Ranked Bradley Team

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
The old song goes "I wish I was in Peoria." But the Bradley Braves undoubtedly wish Drake had been somewhere else.

Drake, which lost 64-52 to Bradley last Saturday at Des Moines, Iowa, invaded the Illinois home of the fifth-ranked Braves Thursday night and upset them 75-66.

Brigham Young, No. 7 in The Associated Press poll, also came a cropper, bowing 81-78 to New Mexico at Albuquerque, N.M.

The only other member of the Top Ten to see action, Duke's No. 1 Blue Devils, badly scared before nipping Clemson 87-85 on the road Tuesday, found things more comfortable at home, trouncing Maryland 76-61.

Bradley's defeat was the first at home this season after 10 straight victories and left the Braves at 13-2 over-all and 3-1 in the Missouri Valley Conference.

The Braves, trailing 36-21 at halftime, fought back to tie it at 50-50. But then Harold Jeter hit on a pair of field goals to put Drake ahead to stay. Jeter finished with 21 points.

Brigham Young, held to only 28 points in the first half of its Western Athletic Conference game, rallied in the second half but could get no closer than one point, 66-65, to the Lobos.

Mel Daniels got 23 points and Ben Monroe 22 for New Mexico. Brigham Young, now 10-2, was paced by Dick Nemelka and Steve Kramer with 19 each.

Duke had a fight on its hands for a while at Durham, N.C., before winning its 11th straight for a 12-1 over-all record and a 5-1 Atlantic Coast Conference mark.

With the score tied 35-35 early in the second half, center Mike Lewis got the Blue Devils going with three straight baskets, and Duke raced to a 72-47 advantage. Steve Vacendak hit for 18 for Duke, and Lewis added 17. Gary Ward was high for Maryland with 15.

Tulsa took advantage of Bradley's loss to move into first place in the Missouri Valley with a 3-0 record by edging North Texas State 62-60 at Tulsa, Okla., on Gene Demaree's lay-up with 28 seconds left.

At Shreveport, La., sophomores Alvin Hayes and Don Chaney of Houston became the first Negroes to play on Centenary's court as Houston beat Centenary 108-84. Both fouled out, with Hayes getting 20 points before leaving. Centenary's Tom Kerwin was high man with 34.

In other major games, Detroit sent Notre Dame to its eighth straight defeat, 97-84, in a game at South Bend, Richmond entertained Virginia Military and snapped the Keydets' three-game winning streak, 103-88; visiting Utah nipped Wyoming 93-91 in overtime; New Orleans Loyola bested Memphis State 88-78 at home, and Denver downed Utah State 79-72 on the losers' court.

Pennel Heads Field in Detroit Meet

DETROIT (AP)—Pole vaulter John Pennel, broad jumper Ralph Boston and NCAA 440-yard indoor sprint champion Theron Lewis head the field in the first Motor City International track meet at Cobo Arena tonight.

Pennel broke the National Indoor pole vault record last week when he cleared the bar at 16 feet, 7 1/2 inches.

John Thomas the Olympic medalist in 1960 and 1964, also is entered in the AAU-sponsored event along with more than a dozen former Olympic team competitors from the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

Janitor-Teacher

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A woman janitor at American International College puts down her dust cloth long enough each week for a sideline — she teaches French.

Students got to know Irene Nichols between classes, learned she was born in France and had the equivalent of a high school education. At their urging, she volunteered to conduct a twice-weekly informal course in conversational French.

Aaron Leading Field in San Diego Open

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Tommy Aaron, who led in the first round in 11 PGA golf tournaments last year, but never won one, and husky Chris Blocker, whose name may ring a bell with television fans, led the way into the second round today of the $40,000 San Diego Open.

The pair shot 6-under-par 65s in the first round, but a small army of rival professionals was too close for comfort as play resumed today over the par 35-36-71 Stardust Country Club course.

Blocker, a 195-pounder from Jal, N.M., is the cousin of Dan Blocker, "Hoss" of the Bonanza TV series.

Chris is starting his second year on the circuit. He won $1,400 in the Los Angeles Open last week.

Aaron, 28, is rated one of the most consistent pros in the business, although he has never won a national title.

Thirty-nine players bettered par in Thursday's first round. But the carnage wasn't as bad as a year ago when 51 shattered regulation figures in the initial round.

Unheralded Lou Graham from Nashville, Tenn., started today's round one shot back of the co-leaders and tied at 67 were Mason Rudolph, Paul Bondeson, Harold Kneese and Bob Zimmerman.

Wes Ellis Jr., the 1965 San Diego winner, rested in the 68 bracket in company with six fellow pros, including Mike Souchak and Don January.

Battling to snap out of the doldrums, Souchak shot a 32-36-68 and January a 34-34-68.

Bill Casper Jr., the local favorite, had a 70 and Doug Sanders a 72. Another San Diegoan, Gene Littler, also had a 72.

Farther back — far back, in fact — was Champagne Tony Lema. It wasn't easy, but he managed to shoot 37-39-76.

Al Geiberger continued to play with a charm token pinned to his cap. It was a plastic blue-and-white bird, a gift from his 2-year-old daughter, Lee Ann.

The bird, according to Geiberger, was responsible for his $500-winning score of 65 in the pro-am Wednesday. And, it may be conjectured, it was responsible for Al keeping in contention in the first round with a 35-35-70.

Bruins Seem to Have a New Formula

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Bruins are in last place in the National Hockey League, but they appear to have found a formula to stop scoring leader Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks.

The formula: assign Ed Westfall, a converted defenseman, as Hull's virtual skating partner whenever the Bruins play the first-place Hawks.

Westfall allowed the Blond Jet only one shot on goal, a long flip from the blueline in the second period, as the Bruins earned a 1-1 tie Thursday night on defensemen Ted Green's 45-foot screen shot in the third session.

Boston Coach Milt Schmidt assigned the rugged Westfall to shadow Hull in a desperation move early in the season. In the last four games, Hull hasn't been able to score when Westfall has been on the ice.

"I sympathize with Bobby," Schmidt said. "It's really frustrating for him, or anyone else, to be checked so closely. But you've got to do it to stop him. He's a great hockey player."

Westfall didn't even try to score as he matched stride for stride with Hull. He kept the 27-year-old left winger off balance from the opening face-off.

Hull, who leads the NHL with 32 goals and 55 points in 31 games, became irritated with Westfall's defensive tactics and received three minor penalties in the second period.

In the only other game played Thursday night, 41-year-old Johnny Bower turned in a 40-save show for his first shutout of the season as Toronto, whipped Montreal 6-0.

It was the 27th career shutout for the Maple Leaf veteran.

State of the Union Message to Congress

WASHINGTON — STATE OF THE UNION — President Johnson delivers his State of the Union address before a joint session of Congress in the House of Representatives.

In his speech, the President told Congress and the nation that the conflict in Viet Nam will not handicap his domestic program. Seated behind the President are House Speaker John McCormack, left and Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

Matching Funds for Recreation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas is eligible for matching federal grants up to $1,026,274 for acquisition and development of state and local outdoor recreation areas, Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall announced today.

The money is in the Land and Water Conservation Fund. Congress appropriated about $84 million for the state and local grant program for the 1966 fiscal year.

In use of fund grants, Arkansas is expected to give priority to serving needs of urban areas, Udall said.

Allen Agrees to a New Contract

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Rich Allen, who knocked Frank Thomas off the Philadelphia roster and 15 errors off his record last season, now has knocked about two months off his labor negotiations.

Allen, the Phillies' All-Star third baseman, agreed to a new contract Thursday, which puts him some two months ahead of 1965 when he was a holdout until 10 days after the start of spring training.

The 23-year-old Allen said he was very satisfied with his 1966 contract, a feeling that contrasts with his disagreement with the Phillies last year.

At that time he felt the Phillies didn't want to pay him enough for the record he compiled as the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1964.

In his first year, he batted .318, hit 29 homers and drove in 91 runs. He also committed 41 errors, the most by a third baseman in 23 years. Last season he hit .302, posted 20 homers and knocked in 85 runs.

But while his batting marks were going down, his fielding average was going up. He made just 26 errors, raising his average from .921 to .943.

En route to that performance, however, Allen also raised a pre-game fuss one Saturday night with teammate Thomas. The flare-up resulted from an exchange of words during batting practice. Allen punched Thomas in the mouth, and Thomas retaliated by taking a swing at Allen with his bat.

Teammates quickly broke up the scuffle, and the Phillies decided to break up the pair. They told Thomas after the game that he had been released on waivers "for the best interest of the club."

Another Phillie, pitcher Jim Bunning, also signed his contract Thursday. Bunning had a 199 record last season with a 2.60 earned run average.

Other signings included pitcher Pete Mikkelsen and catcher Jesse Gonder of Pittsburgh, pitcher Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees, pitcher Dick Stigman and outfielder Bob Allison of Minnesota, pitcher Phil Ortega of Washington and catcher Joe Azcue and outfielder Leon Wagner of Cleveland.

LBJ's Talk Was All Very Dramatic

By ARTHUR EDSON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dramatically the rear doors of the House swung open, and in bounced portly William M. Miller, the man known as "Fish Bait." In a voice redolent of his native Pascagoula, Miss., the House doorkeeper bawled: "Mr. Speaker, the President of the United States!"

Thus, with a blend of formality and cornpone, the familiar pageant began again. As required by the Constitution, Lyndon B. Johnson had come to report on the State of the Union.

Each year it seems something new is added. Wednesday night for the first time a State of the Union message was televised in color, and more than 40 floodlights lit up the old chamber. Mrs. Johnson wore red, the wife of the vice president, Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey, wore blue.

If you had to name a color for the speech you'd have to say it was a somber brown.

This was a strange speech Johnson made, for it was really two talks tacked on to each other.

He opened with a roadmap to the "Great Society," but this halted after six and a half pages with this notation: "(This is the end of the first section.)"

Then came the second half, on Viet Nam. As the President himself said in summing up the nation's prospects:

"Over it all — wealth, promise, and expectation — lies our troubling awareness of American men at war."

Johnson was applauded 57 times in the 52 minutes he talked, but, as usual on these occasions, the cheering was often more mechanical than enthusiastic. As always, most members of the party out of power listened silently and glumly.

The President was a perfect guest. His suggestion that members of the House should run for office every four years, instead of the present two-year term, got the biggest hand of the night.

Johnson apparently tinkered with his speech till late and conies of it were so scarce only one person on the floor appeared to have one—a surprising exception.

Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin had a copy and followed the President carefully all the way. But anyone watching the ambassador for clues to his reaction was bound to be disappointed.

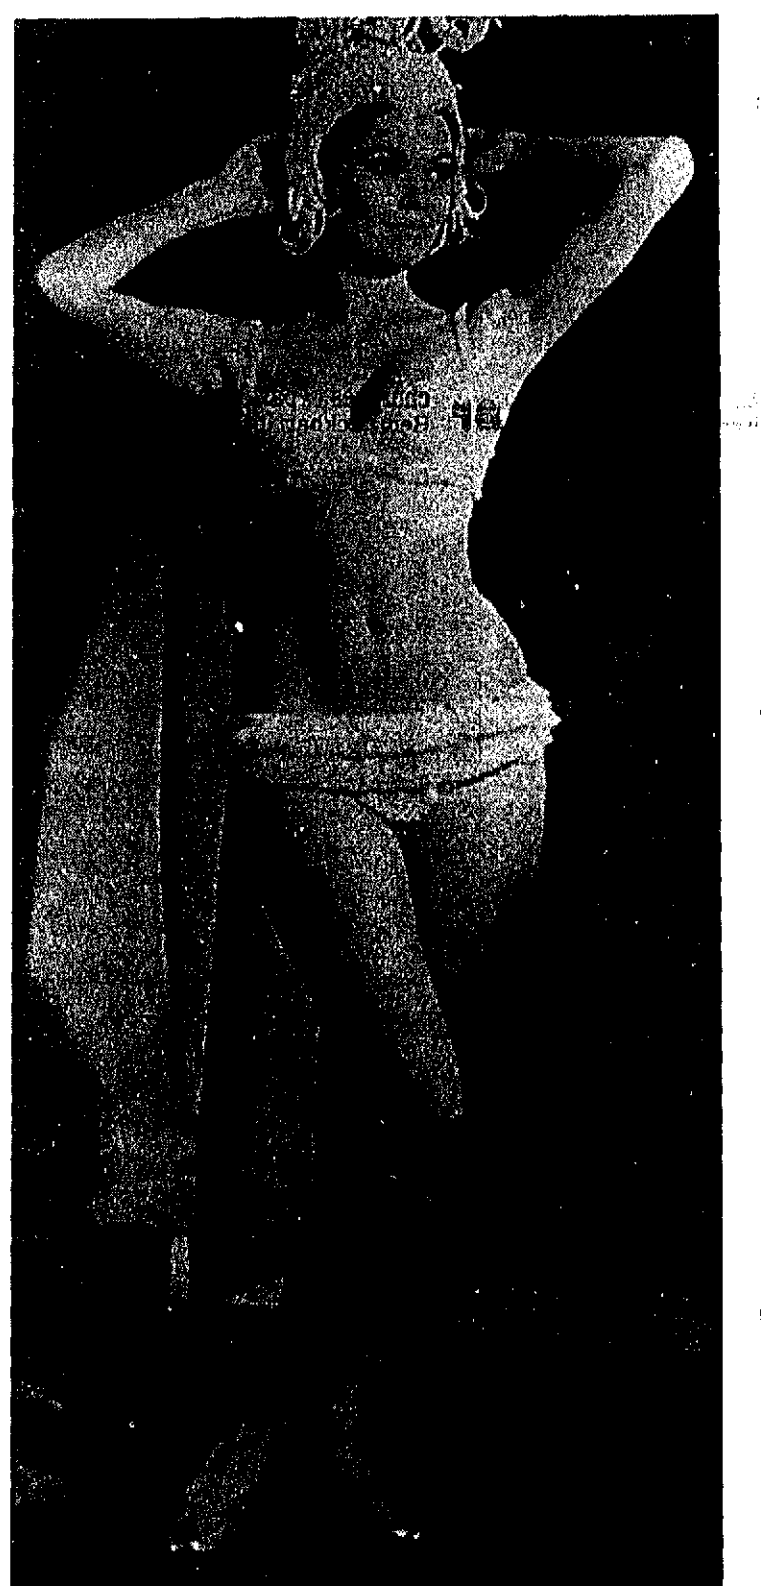

Whether the President said he yearned for peace, or vowed to fight if he must, Dobrynin diplomatically never changed his expression once.

Soviet Blasting

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A young fisherman who fled Cuba in a small boat says undersea dynamite blasting by Soviet technicians looking for petroleum has frightened away fish on Cuba's north coast.

"They haven't found any oil and fishing is off 60 per cent," said the refugee, who declined use of his name for fear of reprisals against relatives in Cuba.

Scaling War 1st Message From LBJ

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Buried deep in President Johnson's State of the Union message is a 10-word proposal to North Viet Nam to start scaling down the war in Southeast Asia without negotiations or even an agreed cease-fire.

"We will respond," he said, playing it in low-key, "if others reduce their use of force."

Some of the President's closest advisers think that is, in fact, the way the war may begin to end — not with a great conference or a formal truce but with a slow dwindling of hostilities.

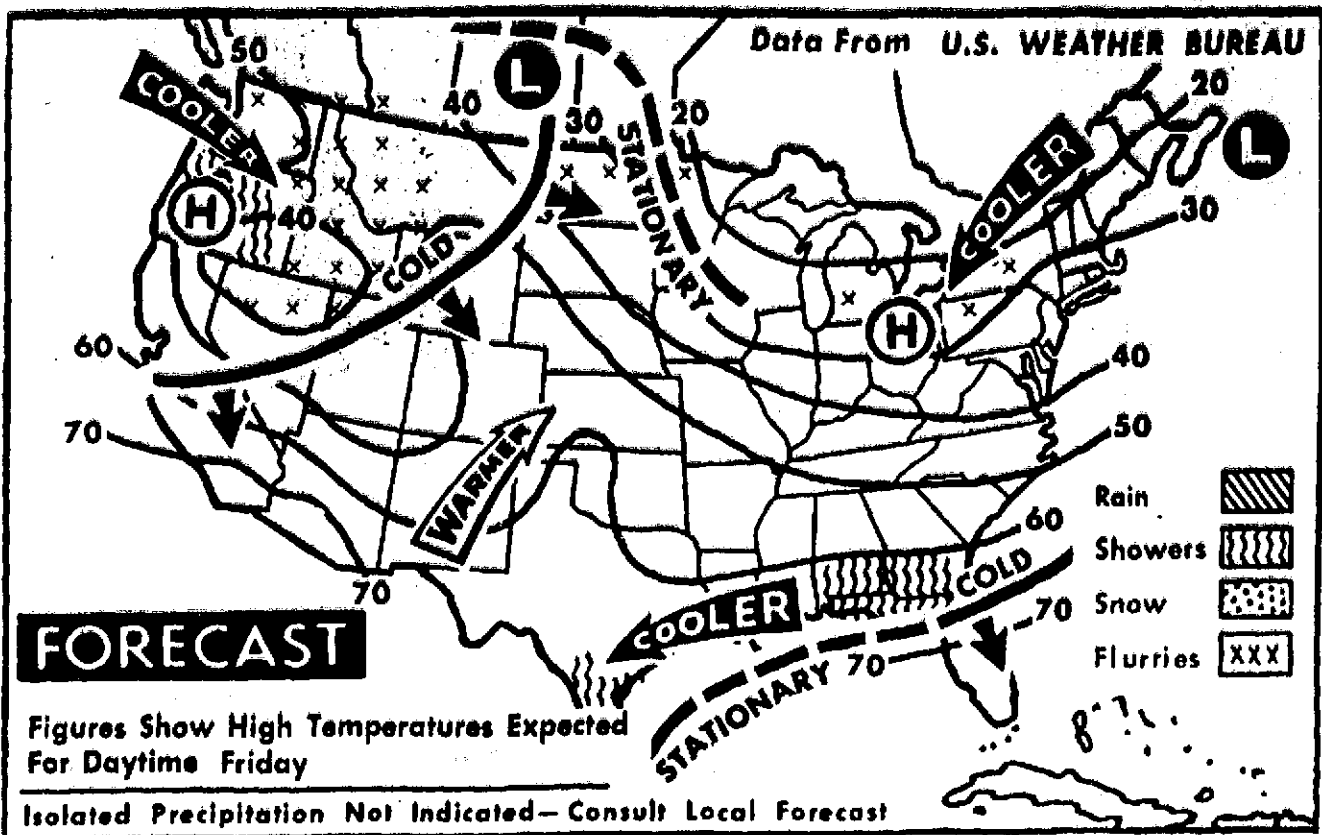

In his address to Congress Wednesday night, the President for the first time put the full weight of his own authority behind this alternative with a flat commitment to begin de-escalating the conflict if and when the Communists are ready.

In recent days dispatches from Viet Nam have indicated some decline in Viet Cong offensive activity. Administration officials said they had no way of judging whether this is significant. It could have been, however, a factor in Johnson's decision to declare at this time his readiness to reduce the fighting through parallel actions by both sides.

The ancient Greeks used soot from burnt butter as a medication for sore eyes, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Commission Contracts Apartments

By JOH. NR. STARR
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Revenue Building Commission has voted to give a property management contract for the Capitol Hill Apartments to Rector-Phillips-Morse, Inc.

The Little Rock firm submitted the low bid on the contract which covers all other rental property under commission control.

The company said it would handle the property for 4.73 percent of rentals. Final award of the contract is subject to a conference between the firm and commission on what is involved.

The commission voted to buy the apartments for $495,500 in a stormy Dec. 15 meeting called after an argument over minutes written by Secretary of State Kelly Bryant regarding a Nov. 30 commission meeting.

The controversy arose over whether the commission voted Nov. 30 to buy the property or to obtain an option on it. Bryant, the commission secretary, said the vote was to buy. The other commissioners voted Dec. 15 to change Bryant's minutes to reflect that the vote concerned an option.

There was another argument over minutes at Wednesday's meeting.

Revenue Commissioner Doris McCastlain suggested two changes in Bryant's minutes of the Dec. 15 meeting.

"I'm not going to come over here and quibble about minutes," Bryant said. "My time is too valuable for that. Do you want a tape recorder?"

Mrs. McCastlain told Bryant she was pointing out things Bryant said the insinuation was that he was not capable of working with the minutes and keeping minutes.

Bryant then moved that Mrs. McCastlain be delegated to be responsible for the minutes and later that Commissioner Ennis Oakes take responsibility. Both motions failed for lack of a second.

Bryant then got a second on a motion that Commissioner Calvin Ledbetter be given responsibility and Ledbetter said, "I'll delegate it to Kelly."

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Qualified Operator Needed To Perform Electrolysis

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q-Is it safe to have hair removed from the face by electrolysis? What other methods are recommended?

A-Unwanted hair on the chin is seen in many women after the menopause. These are usually inconspicuous but some women are overly self-conscious about them. The removal of these hairs with an electric needle is safe in the hands of a qualified operator. This is the only method that gets rid of the hair permanently, but it is a tricky business because too little current will not kill the roots and the hair will grow again. On the other hand, too much current will cause scarring. This method requires several sittings and is not practical if the hair is to be removed from a large area. This is also the most expensive method.

Hair protruding from a mole should be removed only by cutting with scissors.

Other methods of removal include shaving, applying warm wax and removing it when it has cooled and hardened, chemical depilatories and abrasion with wet pumice. None of these methods will increase the coarseness of the hair or its rate of growth in spite of rumors to the contrary. Good results have also been obtained with short-wave diathermy.

Here is a hand from the International team trials that shows that experts don't always make as many tricks as ordinary players. Practically every South player reached the spade game even though the play for it is less than a 50 per cent chance. The trials were scored on International Match Points and that scoring method encourages the bidding of doubtful game contracts.

The ordinary player would not like his contract but he would make it because both the king and queen of clubs are located in the East hand. Now let's see how one expert managed to go down.

He won the king of diamonds lead with the ace, promptly led a spade and finessed dummy's eight. East was in with the king and returned the three of diamonds. West won this trick with the queen and led the queen of hearts, whereupon South took dummy's ace and king of hearts and got back to his hand by ruffing a third heart.

Then South led a spade and finessed dummy's jack. East showed out and South proceeded to count the hand and concluded that West had probably started with exactly two clubs.

South played the jack of clubs from dummy. East covered with the king, and South won with the ace as West dropped the eight.

Now South led another trump to dummy's ace and played a second club. East played low and South had to decide whether West's remaining club was the queen or the nine. He decided wrong and played a low club, whereupon West won the trick with the nine. South still had to lose to the queen of clubs and was one down.

on the three major networks — gave the chief executive's speech in the dignified and somber House of Representatives extra interest and dimension.

The President looked rested and vigorous. The cameras stayed, most of the time, on his face as he spoke. The red and white stripes of the flag behind him provided a handsome setting.

It is on such an occasion that one is so grateful to television. The American people were brought into that crowded chamber — and had better seats Wednesday night's premiere of than the dignitaries in the front row at that.

At a critical moment during "Batman," our hero who was clad in a leopard, scalloped cape and wearing a hangman's helmet, strode into the "What a Way to Go-Go" discotheque — "a favorite haunt of high society," he explained in an aside.

An unperturbed headwaiter asked if he wanted a table.

"No, I am just looking," replied Batman. "I'll stand at the bar. I shouldn't wish to attract attention."

And that's the way things are — and will continue to be in ABC's new series based on comic book characters.

Thus we find that "Batman" is really a young millionaire named Bruce Wayne who undertook his battle against the underworld "after my parents were murdered by dastardly villains." Wednesday night's dastardly villain was "The Ridler," who laughs like Richard Widmark and cloaks his clues of evil intentions with such puzzlers as "why is an orange like a bell."

Well, it is a bit too self-conscious and coy for this reviewer's taste but maybe the little kids will find it funny.

A bit later in the evening ABC introduced another new series, "Blue Light," which is a forthright, earnest and old-fashioned spy story. Our hero, played by Robert Goulet, is an American agent in World War II who has convinced the Nazis he is a turncoat and a traitor.

The show is played absolutely straight — a nice change from tongue in cheek — and is handsome in color. Goulet is most attractive and the series ought to go very nicely.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — UNICEF, the U.N. Children's fund, is investigating a report that a Soviet member of its staff, Vadim Isakov, tried to buy missile components from a New Jersey firm.

UNICEF Executive Director Henry R. Labouisse indicated in a statement that Isakov would be fired if the investigation confirmed the report published in the New York Journal-American.

Isakov could not be reached for comment. The FBI refused comment.

The Journal-American reported two New Jersey businessmen said Isakov, a UNICEF procurement officer, attempted to buy "restricted" missile components from their Paterson, N.J., firm and once offered a $9,000 down payment.

The newspaper said the businessmen claimed they kept the FBI informed throughout their talks with Isakov from last June to December and refused to deliver the missile parts on FBI advice.

PARIS (AP) — A thousand French army troops put down their guns for shovels and trucks today to scrape an ankle-deep cover of gray slush left on the streets by the city's worst snow-storm in 20 years.

Six to eight inches of snow fell Monday night and Tuesday morning, the heaviest fall since 1946. Temperatures have been generally below freezing since, and there was no immediate indication of a prolonged thaw.

Paris has virtually no snow-removal equipment because snow is so rare in the capital and usually melts off within a few hours.

Batman Does It With Money

The new television show, Batman, is snagging off big guest stars by paying whopping salaries. One star told me she got more for her Batman inning than she had for any other television show she had done.

"And it was such easy work," she said. "The characters speak the way they do in the comics. Any time the script has a speech longer than three words, they cut it."

GEORGE, or FULL OF PEPPARD

George Peppard is back in town and glad of it.

"In the last few years," he says, "I've been away from home more than I've been here. And I was so happy to get back home—and I don't mean just home to my own apartment, I mean home to my country. I missed the United States."

He just finished "The Blue Max," a World War I story shot in Ireland. And he was afraid that his next film, "Tobruk," was going to be locationing in Africa. But they're making that here.

"I'm very happy about that," he says. "You can't imagine what it means to be able to stay home for a while—good food, good beds, your own country."

In "The Blue Max," Peppard played a German flyer, and he learned to fly for the part. It wasn't required, but he thinks it helped.

"It was worth it," he says, "if only for one shot in the picture. The shot opens with a big closeup of me in a plane, in an open cockpit. It was taken from a chopper. Then it pulls back and back and then you see only a long shot of the plane and I go into a stall and dive. Obviously, it has to be me piloting the plane. It couldn't have been done with a double, and I think that one scene alone made it worth-while."

As a by-product, he became so interested in flying that he's still pursuing it. He hopes soon to have a commercial license.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. B. F. Sisk says action has been taken to prevent "casual visitors to Viet Nam" from interfering with the war effort.

The California Democrat said he had complained to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara that "tours of Saigon and excursions to the fighting front" given some U.S. dignitaries "appear to absorb entirely too much time, effort and equipment of our forces there."

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department survey shows that the number of American farms declined 3 per cent last year.

The drop was a continuation of a long trend. The latest estimate is about 20 per cent below the figure of Jan. 1, 1959.

The survey said that on Jan. 1 of this year there were 3,286,000 farms compared with 3,380,000 a year earlier.

The number of U.S. farms hit a peak of 6,812,000 in 1935.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The average gross weekly earnings for nonfarm payroll employees reached a new high of $110.92 last month.

The Labor Department says total nonfarm payroll employment also reached a new high at 62.6 million, up 60,000 from November and 27 million higher than in December of 1964.

How the Chinese do it

Legend has it that Chinese doctors used to be paid only while their patients were healthy, got no fee during illness. It almost sounds reasonable. In fact, there are physicians today who specialize in keeping their patients healthy. Preventive medicine, it's called. All doctors practice it as much as they can. If you get regular checkups, your doctor has a chance to keep you from getting sick. Modern drugs play a large part in this practice, and that's where we pharmacists come in. But only you can make preventive medicine work—by getting into the habit of regular checkups. It's a very good idea.

New Cabinet Member Is a Negro

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert C. Weaver appears likely to have an easier task winning Senate approval as the first Negro member of the Cabinet than he did in 1961 as housing administrator.

President Johnson announced Thursday he would nominate Weaver as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Weaver, 58, has been acting head of the new department since its formal creation in November. As administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, he has directed the agencies now under the new Cabinet department.

Johnson said he would name Robert C. Wood, 42, chairman of the national science department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as undersecretary of the new department. Wood headed a task force that advised Johnson on its organization and functions.

"I am very proud of this team," Johnson said.

The nominations were scheduled to go to the Senate today.

The new department — the 11th in the Cabinet — has under its wing the Federal Housing Administration, the Public Housing Administration, the Urban Renewal Administration and the Community Facilities Administration.

Johnson said no decision has been made on a reported proposal by Wood's task force to move the community action part of the administration's antipoverty program from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the new department.

Senators, including some Southerners, generally expressed approval of Weaver's appointment. And two Negro leaders promptly applauded Johnson's announcement.

"Congratulations and deep thanks for your history-making appointment," wired Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, said of the appointment: "It will become a model to inspire and motivate the Negro youth in today's society."

Early Senate approval of the two nominees seemed likely. Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said the Senate Banking Committee which he heads will hold confirmation hearings Monday. He described Weaver as an able man. He said "I don't anticipate any trouble."

EARLY DETECTION IMPORTANT IN HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

High blood pressure is one of the leading causes of death, being responsible for over three times as many deaths yearly as cancer. Insurance statistics have proved the eventual danger of even a moderate increase in blood pressure.

The danger of high blood pressure lies in the fact that the condition is well advanced before symptoms reveal themselves. Some of the prominent symptoms are dizziness, headaches, a feeling of fullness in the head, redness of the eyes, shortness of breath and ringing sensations in the ears.

Most cases of high blood pressure are caused by nerve irritation, therefore respond very favorably to Chiropractic adjustments. Worry, excitement, overwork and emotional stress are contributing causes. An early Chiropractic examination and adjustments may offset serious future development of the disease.

Letter Writers Superior People.

The Morning News has long believed that letters to the editor are among the best-read features of this and all other newspapers.

It has been our aim to give the public great freedom as it expresses itself in the letters to the editor columns — probably the most effective medium the public has in getting its views across. Provided letters can be read and are free of libel or slander or scurrilous matter, and provided they are in general good taste, this newspaper has maintained a policy of "print them all." We continue in this policy because of our belief in the superior quality of those who will take time to express their views and do not try to hide behind anonymity.

So it comes as no surprise to us that a professional survey reported by the American Newspaper Publishers Association bears out our belief that writers of letters to the editor are rather superior people who are sincere in what they write and don't mind going on record to express various views. The study was conducted by a university professor who sent questionnaires to a number of citizens who wrote to one of three Midwestern newspapers during one month.

Of these, 12 were professional people, 38 white collar workers, six laborers, 14 farmers, 40 housewives, 18 retired persons, 10 students and one unemployed. Almost half were 55 years of age or older. Only seven were under 18. Politically, the Democrats had the edge 56 to 35. The vast majority were well-read, subscribing to at least one daily newspaper. They were about equally divided in their motive for writing. They said they were either writing to satisfy their own personal feelings or because of a desire to inform or help the community.

There is no doubt that sincere letters do have an impact. More than in any other medium, these letters have prompted civic and political leaders to respond to questions raised by individual citizens. Letters have given to the public information which might not otherwise have come to light. The letter writer and the reader may be surprised to find out just how much good is done by one letter which strikes a responsive chord in the public mind and heart. There will always be a place for a responsible letter to the editor in the pages of the Savannah Morning News. — Savannah (Ga.)

Century Bible Class, First Methodist Church in Hope, will celebrate their 20th anniversary on Sunday, January 16. Albert Graves will be the teacher and a special program has been planned.

Earl Clifton was the first president, W. A. Mudgett was secretary and E. S. Burke treasurer. Some of the original teachers were: O. A. Graves, Albert Graves, W. S. Atkins, Lyle Brown, Lawrence Martin and the late John P. Vesey.

Present officers are: Lloyd Hendrix, president; Jim Pruss, vice president; K. G. Hampton, secretary and J. W. Ranks, treasurer. Teachers are Albert Graves, Royce Welsberger, John Wilson, and Wayne Russell. Alternate teachers are: Jam Russell, W. E. McFarland, Norman Smith and Oris Thornton. ## Only History Will Record Who Really Won in the New York Transportation Strike

By HA LBOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Who won? That will be the big question when history gets around to writing the final script of New York City's big 12-day transportation strike of 1966.

It is like a play by Edward Albee or a Perry Mason television show plot—full of drama but hard to figure out just what it is all about.

And if Hollywood ever tries to turn it into a major film, there'll be considerable difficulty deciding which characters to make heroes and which to make antiheroes or downright villains.

There will be no problem, however, about who were the innocent victims. They were the millions of people in the metropolitan area who had to come to work by improvised means.

They arranged car pools, they hitchhiked, they rode on unicycles, bicycles, even skateboards. And they walked. Even Mayor John V. Lindsay himself hoofed it from his hotel suite to City Hall.

This gave birth to one of the many wisecracks inspired by the long donnybrook: "Lindsay promised to put the city on its feet, and Mike Quill put the mayor on his feet."

The other favorite wisecrack was this:

"Mike Quill stopped crime in the subways, then mugged the whole city single-minded from a hospital bed."

There are those who see Mayor Lindsay as a clean-cut St. George fighting the good fight to save the metropolis from a fire-breathing dragon—Quill, leader of the striking bus and subway workers.

The trouble is that the dragon wound up with all the best lines. Few who saw the scene will forget Quill, on the verge of going to jail, utter in a quivering bronchitic brogue:

"What role should be assigned to the young mayor? Was he another Horatius at the bridge, hero of the hour? Was he an irresolute Hamlet who asked himself too long, 'To call out the National Guard or not to call out the National Guard—that is the question.' Or did he, like Gen. Custer at the Battle of the Little Big Horn, err through overconfidence because he hadn't seen so many Indians at one time?

Time will tell. There is no doubt whatever who lost—the people, as usual. They paid for the whole inconvenient show, and look forward to an eventual rise in the cost of going to and from their jobs. The 15-cent ride seems surely doomed.

If Hollywood should ever make a film of this civic imbroglio, only one writer would appear capable of doing it ironic justice—the ghost of Lewis Carroll.

He wrote "Alice in Wonderland."

$260,000 Suit of High Court

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Benny L. Walden's law suit seeking $260,000 from four physicians reached the Arkansas Supreme Court Thursday.

Walden's suit stems from a 1961 traffic accident at Danville in which he was injured. He filed the original suit in Pope Circuit Court and said that on advice of the doctors, he settled a $20,000 personal injury suit for $1,500.

The court dismissed the suit and granted a summary judgment for the doctors. Walden said he later learned that he was 30-35 per cent disabled.

Snow, Sleet But No Severe Storms Yet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow, rain and sleet fell across scattered sections of the nation today but no severe storms were reported.

The storm in the Midwest which dumped more than a foot of snow in parts of Wisconsin and northern Illinois, weakened as it moved into the Northeast. However, fairly heavy amounts were reported in some areas, including three inches at Buffalo and Syracuse, N.Y.

A mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain hit areas in high elevations of the Appalachians of Pennsylvania and the Virginias. Rain extended southward to the middle and western Gulf coasts.

More rain splashed across areas from northern California into western Washington.

The severe storm which lashed Wisconsin Wednesday and Thursday was blamed for the deaths of 11 persons. Ten of the victims died of heart attacks while shoveling snow and one man died of a heart attack while brushing snow off his car.

A fresh surge of Arctic air spread into the northern Plains and northern Midwest areas and dropped temperatures to below zero in parts of Minnesota and North Dakota and to near zero in northern Michigan.

The mercury dipped to 21 below zero at International Falls, Minn., and to -17 at Grand Forks, N.D.

Cong Activity Continues on Reduced Scale

By THOMAS A. REEDY
SAIGON South Viet Nam (AP)—Viet Cong activity continued on a reduced scale today. Mishaps dogged American forces, but the South Vietnamese reported some successes.

Government militiamen killed 40 Communists in beating off an attack on an outpost near the provincial capital of Quang Ngai, 330 miles northeast of Saigon, scene of repeated Communist thrusts.

Casualties among the 100 defenders were reported light. Two U.S. planes — a two-engine C123 flare ship and an Air Force single-seat Skyraider — collided in the air on an operation in support of Korean ground troops 15 miles northwest of Qui Nhon on the central coast. All seven men on board were killed.

The Skyraider crashed into the bigger plane from underneath after pulling out of a strike, a spokesman said. Other mishaps plagued the U.S. Marines in the Da Nang area, resulting in U.S. and Vietnamese casualties.

On the diplomatic front, Saigon awaited with rising interest the arrival Saturday of U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Ambassador W. Averell Harriman. It was assumed they would try to still misgivings in the South Vietnamese government about President Johnson's peace efforts.

In the Da Nang area, 380 miles northeast of Saigon, two U.S. Marine jets called in by a forward air controller sank four sampans manned by government militiamen in the Thin Yen River, 20 miles southwest of Da Nang, after being told they were carrying Viet Cong.

Four civilians on the river bank were killed and 16 civilians and five militiamen were wounded. The Marines accepted full responsibility for the mistake, a spokesman said.

McClellan Says Laws Must Be Enforced

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., says the key to maintaining community standards, national ideals, moral values and safety of citizens lies in laws and the enforcement and observance of laws.

McClellan told the Arkansas Sheriffs Association Thursday night that "the crime menace is critical. We can no longer be indifferent or neglect to do something about it. The bills I have introduced will certainly not do everything that needs to be done, but they will be helpful."

McClellan said, "Law can be an effective force only so long as the people respect those who write the law, those who interpret the law and those who enforce the law."

His bill crime costs the American economy $27 billion a year, an average of $600 for each family.

"The human misery, pain and suffering that it produces cannot, of course, be measured in money."

The six McClellan bills would outlaw crime organizations such as the Mafia, grant immunity to accomplices who testify against the principal in a crime, outlaw intimidations of prospective witnesses, outlaw wiretapping except under court order, provide for civil commitment of drug addicts and permit criminal juries to consider voluntary confessions even when a defendant has not been arraigned immediately.

He said police brutality "is a popular and recurring charge and is offered as an excuse for riots, demonstrations and violence."

In most instances such a charge "is utterly false—just a red flag raised to inflame the mob and a diversionary tactic and smoke screen to hide the truth," he said.

The sheriffs gave McClellan a plaque for outstanding work in the field of crime and also made him a lifetime member of the association.

At Little Rock where McClellan landed after a flight from Washington, he said in an interview that a successful war on crime is vital to President Johnson's Great Society. He said the President's pledge for such a war in his State of the Union address Wednesday was encouraging.

Criticism of LBJ's Plan to Restore Taxes

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson says he detects "a minimum of opposition" to his proposal to restore excise tax cuts on cars and phone bills.

"I think most of the legislators would prefer receiving revenues in this form than revenues in new taxes on corporations and individuals," Johnson told a news conference at the White House Thursday.

Amid a burst of criticism from congressmen over his tax proposals announced in Wednesday night's State of the Union message, Johnson said he had sounded out sentiment in advance and "I did not detect overwhelming resistance to it."

He said he believed that "most of the people are patriotic" and would be willing to give up reductions in the taxes, which took effect Jan. 1, to finance additional military costs stemming from the Viet Nam war.

In other major topics covered at the news conference, Johnson said:

— He will appoint Robert C. Weaver as secretary of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development and Robert C. Wood as undersecretary. Weaver would be the first Negro member of the Cabinet.

— "The number of incidents" in Viet Nam has "dropped off some." But he added: "I don't say there is any connection with that and our peace moves." U.S. envoys will continue to visit foreign capitals in the search for peace, he said.

— He is "disturbed" that the New York City transit strike lasted so long and "I am equally concerned by the cost of the settlement," which "violates our national guidelines for non-inflationary wage increases."

— Reaction to the State of the Union message was "very good" and "I was very pleased with it."

— He feels "fine" three months after his gall bladder operation.

— He has no foreign travel plans now.

Leon Catlett, the Democratic state chairman, said earlier in the week that the Democratic executive committee would meet this month to decide on the election. He said after meeting with Gov. Orval E. Faubus that the governor might call the election for March 15.

Hammerschmidt said Thursday he still urged Faubus to call a majority election to fill the House vacancy when Harris resigns.
